About This Test

An Antenatal panel with HPLC (High-Performance Liquid Chromatography) measures several key health parameters in a pregnant woman and her developing fetus. It typically includes blood tests for hemoglobin levels, blood group, Rh factor, glucose tolerance, and infections (HIV, hepatitis B, syphilis). The HPLC specifically analyzes hemoglobin variants to detect conditions like thalassemia and sickle cell anemia. This comprehensive panel ensures early detection and management of potential complications, promoting the health and well-being of both mother and baby.
